Re: LED parking lot lighting retrofits

Mark,

At Tishman Speyer sustainability is at the very core of our business. Sustainable buildings and operations maximize the use of all resources at their disposal, minimizing waste and ensuring the greatest possible efficiency. We have been doing this since the beginning but there is always something new to learn, a different way to apply our experience and to keep improving. We consider R World Energy an important resource for keeping up to date with the ever changing energy efficient technologies. We are always looking for new ways to reduce our usage and value your knowledge and expertise as important to the process of identifying those opportunities.

The parking lot lighting retrofit we completed in 2013 has provided a 70% reduction in electrical usage, while at the same time improving the lighting levels and appearance of our parking lots. We have also seen significant reductions from a number of smaller projects throughout the properties.

I would definitely recommend R World Energies to anyone pursuing energy efficiency projects and would be happy to provide a reference for your company.

Sincerely,

James M. Rementer
